

© Jure Melon

Villa Artes is a housing project in the centre of Portorož, the main slovenian seaside resort. It is constructed out of eight individually shaped flats, with a large outside open space area. The project has been developed on the thesis of the master about identity of space in contemporary architecture. Starting points were added to the urban conditions. Characteristic of the traditional architecture were treated as a process, a method which created new results. The building is divided in 8 parts, each has a different organisation, which is based on the scheme of the organisation of old city palaces. They have all the same access (in the statue from the 15th century, it is considered as a basic right). Instead of green atriums, there is a garden. All the materials are taken from the local area. The facade is mainly made of stone and has a textile texture, it is a reinterpretation of the 15th century important palaces of the cities of the coast.

Villa Artes, Slovenia

Koperska street
Portoroz, Slovenien

ARCHITEKTUR
AA kultura
Andrej Mlakar
Anže Zalaznik

KUNST AM BAU
Zvest Apollonio

FERTIGSTELLUNG
2005

SAMMLUNG
Architekturarchiv Slowenien

PUBLIKATIONSdatum
6. Mai 2007

© Jure Melon

© Jure Melon

© Jure Melon

Villa Artes, Slovenia

DATENBLATT

Architektur: AA kultura (Marko Apollonio, Nina Crljenko, Petra Brank), Andrej Mlakar, Anže Zalaznik

Kunst am Bau: Zvest Apollonio

Peter Blažek u.d.i.s.

Janez Slobko u.d.i.e.

Funktion: Wohnbauten

Planung: 2002

Ausführung: 2004 - 2005

Bruttogeschossfläche: 1.060 m²

Bebaute Fläche: 400 m²

© Jure Melon