Housing complex Zlatá noha is an example of actual contribution to the topic of housing realized on one of th emost attractive localities of Bratislava. The terrain slope was creatively reflected in the spatial solution of the individual apartment houses that differ in varaiations but are identical in the overall expression. The irregularities of the site are inscribed in the play of volumes and facades. The wooden panneling is an unifying element. The character of the housing complex is rich in volumes and spatially interesting and the simplicity and clarity of the concept along with the smart architectural solution of apartments make its character unique in teh actual spectrum of housing projects for Bratislava.
