

© László Tóth

The Somogyi Wine Cellar is located at the bottom of the Calvary Hill, next to the northern city walls and the tunnel. It was Sándor Dévényi who began to deal with this 19th century cellar, he designed three wagon-roofs protruding from the hill, though these were not waterproof. To be able to use the wagon-roofs we designed a steel structured pergola above them that protects the building from the rain and also refers to the function of the cellar. The effect is further enhanced by the „Bacchanalia“ sculpture of Sándor Rétfalvi. The wine cellar is also adjusted to this: the three wagon-roofs are protected by steel gates into which we „machine-gunned“ holes so in the heat of the summer they let the breeze in but provide shade. This densely pierced gate creates interesting reflections inside. In the field of interior design we worked together with Klára B. Soós (architect's text)

Winery and wineshop

Hunyadi utca 12.
7625 Pécs, Ungarn

ARCHITEKTUR

Bachman & Bachmann

Klára B. Soós

BAUHERRSCHAFT

Somogyi Pincészet

TRAGWERKSPLANUNG

László Bencze

KUNST AM BAU

Sándor Rétfalvi

FERTIGSTELLUNG

2004

SAMMLUNG

Architekturarchiv Ungarn

PUBLIKATIONSdatum

20. Mai 2010

© László Tóth

© László Tóth

© László Tóth

Winery and wineshop

DATENBLATT

Architektur: Bachman & Bachmann (Bálint Bachmann, Zoltán Bachman)

Mitarbeit Architektur: Adél Heidecker, Krisztián Kovács-Andor

Architektur / Innenraumgestaltung: Klára B. Soós

Bauherrschaft: Somogyi Pincészet

Tragwerksplanung: László Bencze

Kunst am Bau: Sándor Rétfalvi

Funktion: Landwirtschaft

Planung: 2002 - 2003

Ausführung: 2003 - 2004

Eröffnung: 2004

Bebaute Fläche: 400 m²

Baukosten: 240.000,- EUR

AUSFÜHRENDE FIRMEN:

Jurta Kft

PUBLIKATIONEN

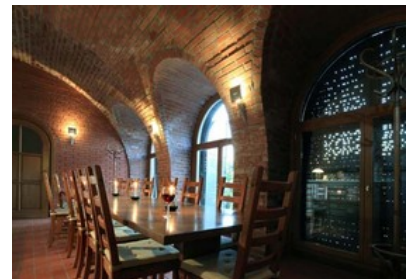

Átrium (Hungary) 2004/5. - pp.60-64.

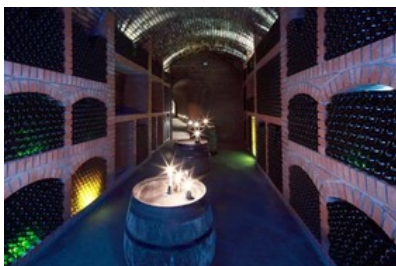

© László Tóth

© László Tóth

© László Tóth

© László Tóth

© László Tóth